—The stages running between Charlevoix and Portage are said to be models. —Two Coroners' Inquiries in Wayne County have resulted in the verdicts of poisoning without holding any body responsible for it. It is as easy to poison people in Michigan without doing it as it was in Italy in the days of the Borgias, or to be put out of the way with poison and thrown into the Grand Canal at Naples.—Free Press.

—Abram Spaul, Secretary of the Fort and Mait Bittern Company, was found dead in his office at Detroit, having deliberately hanged himself to a cork hole in the wall. The suicide caused a great sensation.

Spaul was one of the most popular and prominent young men of the city. He was a well-known politician, an active member of the Light Infantry, and a leader in the best social society. Dependency on account of poor health and unfortunate speculations are supposed to be the cause. He was a young man of exemplary habits.

The cause of Spaul's suicide is explained. It was engaged to be married, and had chronic disease which he feared was incurable.

—Emmet County is torn up over a poor man's county seat question. Potokoy was to be the county town, and Harbor Springs is naturally unwilling to give up the honor. It seems that the State Legislature established the county seat at one time at Fort Mackinac, but afterward repealed the law. The Board of Supervisors then met at Little Traverse. From 1857 to 1867, with the vote of the people moved it to section 25, town 41 north, range 8 west, which is the present site of Charlevoix. Afterward when the Legislature of this State created the county of Charlevoix out of the county, it failed to perform its duties, at least there is no record to show anything about the location of the county seat. Some of the members of the new county were ordered to turn over the books and papers to the officers of Emmet County, and without consent or tacit agreement the county business has always been transacted at Little Traverse, near Harbor Springs. Now the Supervisors are trying to determine whether long habit and ineffectiveness has legally established the village as the county seat or not.

WASHINGTON.

Secretary McCallum sent to the House, the other day, an urgent letter requesting an appropriation of $200,000 to provide for the storage and transportation of silver coin. In his letter Mr. McCallum mentioned that the contingent of the Independent Treasury for the current year, $25,000,000, nearly exhausted, and a deficiency appropriation of $200,000 will be necessary. A great deal of this money has been used to pay for carrying silver from one place to another. That sum is insignificant compared with the demands upon it. The profits of coinage may be used to pay for the transportation of coin from a mint to the Treasury or a Sub-Treasury, but not for transportation from one Sub-Treasury to another, or from a Sub-Treasury to the Treasury. The Secretary states that an appropriation of half a million dollars to make immediately available.

An appropriation of $25,250,200 is recommended by the postoffice bill as completed by the House Appropriation Committee. The estimates prepared by the Postoffice Department amount to $36,000,100. The conference was devoted to the condition of the national finances and the need for any change in the policy of the administration, and that there was no reason to anticipate any depreciation in the value of silver certificates.

Mr. Hanna's election as speaker has set the Democratic leaders seriously to considering whether they can spare Garland and Bayard from the Senate. Both were considered booked—the one for Attorney General, the other for Secretary of State. Curiously enough, both were defeated in the recent elections. The opposition to Garland is chiefly on the ground that he is a Hamiltonian, a Federalist in his construction of the Constitution.

At a conference at the Treasury Department in Washington with the New York bankers, it was agreed that there is nothing to justify the depreciation in the value of silver certificates. The National Board of Trade passed a resolution urging Congress to repeal the law for compulsory silver coinage.
